1) Corallium Rubrum Cough Case:

I am asking him to get a X-Ray done. There is a good possibility that this is a tubercular cough.

It's so recurrent cough.

You hear that cough then SKB is mimicking the cough sound

Now look at Coccus Cacti and Corallium Rubrum in your Materia Medicas.

In Corallium Rubrum is written it is a machine gun cough (very rapid; the attacks follow so closely) then mimicking the cough sound

You can prescribe by only hearing the cough sounds.

[Refer the Cough sounds Video by my son, Saptarshi:

And <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PeZXpZQ2ZO4>

You heard this cough.

Today I have given 2 doses of Corallium Rubrum, 30C.

This is can be a Tubercular cough.

Follow-up after 3 weeks later.

These are patches of fibrotic lesions in the lungs and you could see quite a bit of extension of the lesions.

This Xray is taken 1 month before on 6th February.

There was Corallium Rubrum prescription thereafter.

Amazing, you know, this is a real acute follow-up of an advanced pathology.

You can see the Cough is so much better in just 3 weeks.

We are talking about open case of Tuberculosis.

They generally give Streptomycin injection plus all strong Anti-tubercular modifications but this patient only having homoeopathy.

Generally within 2 to 4 weeks, these open cases of Tuberculosis becomes a closed case (meaning non-infectious).

The way he was coughing 3 weeks before and see him today after Corallium 30!

Glory goes to Hahnemann and his beautiful Homoeopathy!
