Three-year Part-time Diploma Licentiate in Classical Homoeopathy

At Allen College of Homoeopathy we teach Classical Homoeopathy, an effective and gentle system of medicine, which uses remedies from a wide range of natural sources to heal the person as a whole, rather than simply treating individual symptoms.

Similia Similibus Curentur

Let likes be treated by likes

“...Homoeopathy considers the man as a whole, not just his individual parts...”

“...Homoeopathy offers a gentle way towards the health of the entire individual...”

Principles and Art of Cure by Dr. H. Roberts M.D

We focus on simple, time-tested methods developed by Hahnemann that have been used in our own practices and by the Banerjea family for over a century. By bringing together Medicines, Philosophy and Medical Science, here at Allen College we provide a solid foundation to use in your own practice as a Homoeopath.

Engage in extensive Clinical Training with live cases and Comparative Materia Medica in our Teaching Clinic, right from the beginning.

Our Aims:

Here at Allen College of Homoeopathy, we have been teaching, training and supporting Homoeopaths for almost thirty years. With our passionate and highly experienced teachers we aim to produce competent, confident and caring Homoeopaths who will be assets to the profession.

We provide our students with a solid foundation in Homoeopathy, based on Therapeutic Principles and incorporated with Modern Concepts. This enables students to evaluate and develop their own Clinical Procedures.
